

The Sacha Borthwick Foundation has been set up in memory of Sacha Borthwick, a much loved husband, father and brother, who died of cancer in July 2007 aged 35 after a long, courageous and hard fought battle with the disease.

Sach left behind his wife Lucy and 5 year-old daughter Olivia. The photo to the left was taken about 2 years ago, during the last summer we all had together as a family.

The Foundation received charitable status on 23rd October 2008 and is registered charity number 1126404.

To date the Foundation has raised over £26,000 through it's first fundraising event, in which Charlie (Sach's brother) completed the Atlantic Coast Challenge in Cornwall, running three marathons in three days.

More events are planned in the future, see the Future Events page for more details.
